Abstract

A device for recognizing particles in milk comprising a measuring surface and a housing. The measuring surface is structured so as to cause the milk to spread on the measuring surface in that the measuring surface has a specific surface roughness.

(Fig. 2)

Fig. 3

Creating a reference image

Determining objects (flaws, particles, etc.)

Imaging a sample

Flaw image

Determination of objects

Typing of objects